DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Naruse et al. (US 2003/0214399) in view of Endoh (US 2003/0216880).

Regarding claim 1, Naruse et al. (US 2003/0214399) teaches a sensor network system comprising; a sensor chip (e.g., wireless sensor 33, see fig. 3 and par. 66) which can transmit measurement values by wireless communication, a sensor database (e.g., memory logic portion 4834, which process electrically the measurement data obtained by the sensor portion 4833, see par. 182, 132) which stores the measurement values measured by the sensor chip, a receiver which receives the measurement values from the sensor chip (e.g., receiver 35, see fig. 3 and par. 66). Naruse et al. does not teach a map database which stores, as map information, data about equipment in which the sensor chip is installed, a map information management unit which manages access to the map data base, and a sensor management device which registers a location where the sensor chip is installed in the map database. However, the preceding limitation is taught in Endoh (see par. 107). It would have been obvious to have implemented the system of Naruse et al. with the teaching of Endoh in order not to lose track of the sensors location and for easy management of the sensors.

Regarding claim 3, it would have been obvious to have had the sensor which has a stake-shaped container since the invention would perform equally well with the sensor chip having a stake-shaped container (MPEP 2144.03).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 2 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 4-10 depend on claim 2. Thus, they are also objected to.
